Summary

Pablo Picasso said: "The meaning of life is to find your gift. The purpose of life is to give it away". When I realized that there is a greater joy in serving others unselfishly, I discovered my gift. And in that gift I also found my purpose in life. As a nurse I strive to provide quality patient care and be a patient advocate. My capstone for my MSN was in Nursing Ethics. I believe it is important to train skillful, professional and ethical nurses to make a greater impact as they offer quality nursing care. One thing I enjoy is to encourage the staff to follow their dreams and excel in what they know to do best: Caring from the Heart. I promote excellence in nursing care through the integration of EBP. At a personal level it is my desire to impact the future of healthcare in Puerto Rico by transforming nursing care through training, education and the implementation of new practices. Nurses are at the forefront of healthcare. They are the first to connect with the patient and family and the first to identify physical, social, emotional and spiritual needs. Healthcare and nursing continue to expand and change as science and technology continue to advance. Nursing practice requires high quality nursing skills and competencies to be at the highest level of health promotion and disease prevention. Evidence-based practices are practices proven to be efficient, appropriate and necessary in order to offer excellent quality, safer and cost effective nursing care. Patient population is becoming more complex as technology and science advance. This is a challenge as nurses strive to provide patient care. It is important to create a safe environment where patients and family feel they will be cared for appropriately and respectfully and they will not be harmed in the process.

Motto: "We are only unworthy servants; we have only done our duty."

Favorite quote: "We can do no great things but small things with great love." Mother Teresa
