Forensic nurses perform duties that are much more specialized than nurses typically perform. They have a variety of roles, including evaluating and caring for victims of assault, domestic abuse, child and elder abuse, neglect, and sexual crimes. As they treat the victim, forensic nurses collect and secure evidence.

ED Charge Nurse
July 2010 - August 2015 (5 years 2 months)
Springfield, Tennessee

My primary job is to help hold the department together by providing guidance to less experienced nurses, making assignments and requesting additional staff if needed. I also field complaints from disgruntled patients and serve as a liaison with doctors and other hospital staff. As an ER charge nurse, I have strong leadership skills, flexibility and the ability to remain calm and assertive even in high-pressure situations.
